The Blackmail

Maybe I should sit and stare It's so different now but you don't even care You have asked me with a grin If you could have it all and if I would let you in It could be yours With all the odds and ends But don't come back again It could be yours Take everything you need I'm begging you to leave You'd better get on someone else Well, I won't beg you please tell me how it felt All that I regret is that we met I only wish you leave 'cause you just bend my head It could be yours With all the odds and ends But don't come back again It could be yours Take everything you need I'm begging you to leave It could be yours with all the odds and ends I don't need anything don't come back again to me It could be yours Take everything you need I'm begging you to leave
