

Revisiting Romance

The Bunny the Bear

Not enough
Lack of trust
Not enough
We've turned to dust
Looking back
I'm not sure we've tried

You'll still be comfort in the darkness of my dreams
And everything in-between
You'll still haunt my memories but a ghost is all that you'll be
A ghost is all that you'll be

Walking from your life, I've given my best and it wasn't enough
Walking out the door, I've given my comfort, can't give anymore

This is not where we were meant to be
We have lost ourselves, and these gray clouds are all that we see

And these gray clouds are all that we see
And these gray clouds are all that we see

You'll still be comfort in the darkness of my dreams
And everything in-between
You'll still haunt my memories but a ghost is all that you'll be
A ghost is all that you'll be

I gave you all that I had
Then tried to call it romance
I wrote a song, maybe two
I even named one for you
I tried to better myself
In your moments of doubt
But not a prayer came true
Not like they ever do

Walking from your life, I've given my best and it wasn't enough
Walking out the door, I've given my comfort, can't give anymore

I gave you all that I had
All that I had
That's what we call romance
That's what we call romance
I gave you all that I had
All that I had