

Let's Go to Europe

The Cassandra Complex

Three hundred years ago we threw you out
We didn't want you then, and we don't want you now
You didn't take our culture, you took slaves instead
You wrote a constitution and left it unread

Let's go to Europe

Your only source of knowledge is T.V.
You censor everything and think you are free
The land of milk and honey
Becomes the land of the Me

Let's go to Europe

We did Paris this morning, now we're in Amsterdam
We'll be in Rome tomorrow if all goes to plan
By the end of the week, we'll have covered it all
There's not much to Europe really, it's so small

Go back to the colonies, go back to where you belong
Go back to the land that you stole, and leave us humans alone

Let's go to Europe
