

Today

The Cats

You were mine for so long and your love was so strong
And today I hear the church bells ringing but they don't ring f or me

I was yours that was true

All my love was for you

And today I hear the choir singing but they don't sing for me

I see your face, your lovely face as you pass me by

Don't look away, you can look at me

You will never see me cry

In my dreams, I could say, "Lie today, you and me"

And today I hear your lovely voice, as you say, "Yes, I will"

Don't look back at a broken heart

I still hear you say, "It was alright that we broke apart"

Do you feel the same today?

But today I hear your lovely voice, as you say, "Yes, I will"

But I love you still