

Inferno

The Claymore

From far away and yet so near, silently I gaze at you
No one knows what's happening inside of me.
Love to see your sparkling eyes, uncovered, shining wild and true
An affectionate smile, you grant me what I love to see.

Sweet like morning dew, clear morning sky
Dominate my dreams, reign my foul fantasies.
Strong and yet fragile, be your secret alibi
Light up the fire... only in my dreams

Inferno's coming - but stays under the surface of my soul
Inferno's come - leave my soul touched drink from the bowl.

On a journey through the dark, hellish fireblast
Cunning predator, alluring the prey
Fire to fire and dust to dust
An addiction, still imperfect to you.

Inferno's coming - but stays under the surface of my soul
Inferno's come - leave my soul touched drink from the bowl.

Keep every soul at distance, I see an ocean of a soul
Only look, don't touch - It's been a touch too much
A near soul will only hurt, so keep them in safe distance
I'll be by you in light and dark, a promise... untold.

Life at first gaze, I wanted to stand and stare.
What did you do to enslave - oh - my entangled mind?
Every morning smile compensates for the loneliness
Gives me the fire, the fire, the fire to carry on
