Fiction

The Concretes

You don't seem to grasp your own importance You misbehave in almost every chapter You take your rescue in some written fiction While your own book could use a better plotline

The font should be bold

Try and turn the next page with some tenderness And maybe things will take a nicer turn You can't control it like some written fiction But try at least to pick a selling title