Feeling crazy in a crowd So alone, and I don't know why Don't always seem so right inside There's a change and it's It's, always rising Should I laugh, should I cry Should I just let it go No more time to change my mind It's on with the show And no more tears Sure enough the clouds will cry To wash away this, this mood That I'm feeling In the shadows cut from life See the faces, as they roll on by Should I laugh, should I cry Should I just let it go No more time to change my mind It's just on with the show Just no more tears
