

Face Of God

The Echoing Green

What do you do when the feelings are all gone
And all that you have left is an empty room?
You go to the place where your heart has turned so black
And turn the pages back
And find the fire of life...
And just let it burn

You've been hurting for far too long
The pain has been getting way too strong
Well now's your chance to right those wrongs
And touch the face of God

What do you do when your heart has been knocked down?
Your head spins with the sound
Of your jaded past...the bridge collapsing

I'm taking you to a place to heal your wounds
And wipe the blood off of your shoes
It isn't just for you
You see I've got to go there to...
And take the sting out of my soul

I've been hurting for far too long
The pain has been getting way too strong
I'm taking this chance to right my wrongs
And touch the face of God

Go to the place where your heart has turned so black...turn the pages back
And find the fire of life...
And just let it burn

This is where I release my pain
Things are never gonna be the same
I'm saying goodbye to all my shame
I've touched the face of God

The face of God
I've touched the face of God
The face of God