

This Will Be Worth It

The Elected

You wish you had more done.
Don't we all get a little selfish sometimes?
The day, run on by, & the nightmares, cold,
Like some kind of sun.
Bout the future or just the past(?) a few days.
And the proof that you're alive
and well with good friends is there but hard to buy.
I wish I had believed in you
When you would tell me that dreams are for coming true.

And that this, this will be worth it.
When it's all said & done;
Promising smiles.
Cause we know - we know we deserve it.
We know that we you earned it.
Release the doves & let them fly.

When you said to check could you (?)
Words to haunt me into the night.
You raise the dead.
It's been circling ever since you left.
But don't you wish, wish you could've done more?
You were never the same since you closed the door.
If we get the chance to do it all again,
Feel free to do it, love, with another man.

This, this will be worth it.
When it's all said & done;
Promising smiles.
Cause you know - you know we deserve 'em.
We know that we earned 'em.
Let's release the doves & let them fly.

For every time we try.
For every worthless fight.
For every time we die.
We know the that this...
We know the that this...

This, this will be worth it.
Now it's all said & done;
We gave em smiles. (?)
Cause you know - you know that you earned it.
You know you deserve it.
Release the doves & let them fly.