Have you had a day, where you didn't talk to nobody Saw no people, heard no evil, probably Turned your phone off, drove with no destination No navigation, off-road to outer places Past the city limits, become an out-of-towner Not a 9-to-5er, I'm around enough Born a only child, was never lonely Straight from the homie, but don't lose touch There's a place where you'll find alone I keep ridin' tryin' to find it, but time is low 'Ye told me 'Drive Slow' I keep my eyes outside, peeled for the next sign to go There's a time when you'll find your soul and time to disregard yellow lines on the road Not sure what's expected, here come the exit I'll be back, but for now, who knows... I gotta find my mind, so I roam with nowhere to go (Yeah, I'm on my own) Quick before my brain explodes, I'm out (I'll be back, but for now, who knows...) Stay low, late night, I don't doze (A different day comes, another one goes) I ain't searchin' for help, for a hurt empress I need me and myself I found a place, I found a phrase, a sentence Instead of exit, waitin' at the entrance Stay beneath the surface until earth pushes me back Turf is territory, I'm watchin' the map Where I go, who I interact with, though Effects me, and could lead to a trap My life, my life, my life, my options outweigh them Can't get a plane, got thoughts about AM Say to myself "Use caution, it's mayhem" Alive on arrival, I'm stayin' It's called survival, and only strong survive Melle Mel got live and crime never stop payin' There's a time when you find your lane and time to disregard what the people are sayin' A CA state of mind that I'm in Off on my own shit in Solitary Confinement I gotta find my mind, so I roam with nowhere to go (Yeah, I'm on my own) Quick before my brain explodes, I'm out (I'll be back, but for now, who knows...) Stay low, late night, I don't doze (A different day comes, another one goes) I ain't searchin' for help, for a hurt empress I need me and myself
