

The Truth Will Set You Free

The Flower Kings

If you walk down that lonely road realizing how little we know I can see the strain in your face just assuming we all join the race hold on - the truth will set you free

No one asking "how does it feel" in a world with no room for your needs putting words to the grief and the pain disappearing like tears in the rain hold out - you will see, the truth will set you free rain keep on falling like the first morning

Who invented the slow burning fire the unforgettable high who put the moon and the stars in the skies the kaleidoscope inside your eyes

Rising higher from the primal cries like a spiral up to the moon day by day this ambitious grind search for a new state of mind

Restless spieces, all of Africa running for water and food flowers and trees & wild, wild weeds colours and shapes of our tribes

The Truth will you free we will stand up to the lie with this heart bigger than America we will fight fire with fire no more kiss will seal the lies

Listen close you can hear a song a stream that run through your soul simple and clear, seeking it's mate just randomly out of control

Far away from the primal instinct the song seems to fade away the river get wider between your thoughts and the things we do and say

The Truth will you free
we will stand up to the lie
with this heart bigger than America
no more kiss will seal the lies

Now straight from the heart your dreams will tell you where you will begin It's straight from the source the image from a long forgotten dream

Look into the flow your thoughts will dance into the evening sun as good as it gets we all remember days of future spent

Move on uphill thru the smokescreens rise up we're learning to fly the bigger the sail the bigger scam we're all gonna fall down and cry

Troubled times, go thru the motions when leaders excel in their lies while they squeeze the flower they took as a loan until it fade out and die

The Truth will set you free
we will stand up to the lie
with this heart bigger than America
no more kiss will seal the lies

The Truth will set you free
we will stand up to the lie
with this heart bigger than America
no more kiss will seal the lies

Rest your legs by the appletree see the alternate realities how you customize the journey, still you've been here before now you know the drill

And so the wind will cry the words of love and you'll design the day you're thinking of Now so much closer so much more in tune We'll take the Stars, the Sun but first the Moon .

Rest your mind by the dawn of time see the scene flourish in it's prime Roll away, away in the big, big blue I'll explode, explain inside of you

And so the wind will cry the words of love
and you'll design the day you're thinking of
Now so much closer so much more in tune
We'll take the Stars, the Sun but first the Moon .