

The Morning After Loving You

The Four Seasons

I heard him say
The magic fades away
After one night or maybe two
Sometimes I doubt
He knows what love's about

The morning after loving you
Much longer than the night
We held each other tight
We're gonna be alright

I sit and stare
And watch you lying there
There's nothing else I'd rather do
And as you wake

The morning after loving you
Much longer than the night
We held each other tight
We're gonna be alright

Your smiling face
Is washed in yellow lace
When morning life comes shining through
And from today
The magic's here to stay

The morning after loving you
When night is in your eyes
I see myself, forever
Loving you
When the night is in your eyes
I see myself, forever
Loving you
