

Sail Away You Sailor Boys

The Irish Rovers

We're leaving dear ould Dublin we're sailing with the tide
The docks are filled with lassies all forlorn and teary-eyed
The parting's never easy as we pull away from shore
For devil a home we'll see again for forty days or more

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea

We're headed for the sunny shores of Portugal and Spain
With turf from Tipperary and from Antrim flax and grain
But the prize of all the cargo of this there's little doubt
There's crates of Irish whiskey and there's kegs of Guinness stout

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea

The captain comes from Belfast and stern but fair is he You'd never find a better man across the Seven Seas
Through fair or stormy weather we take it as it comes
For the captain just like us he likes his daily tot of rum

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea

So here's to all the sailor boys wherever you may roam
And may you have a worthy ship when plowing through the foam
And may the fates be gentle and smile upon us all
And we'll drink to our good fortune at the nearest port of call

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea

So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailor boys the wind is blowing free
So sail away (Sail away) So sail away (Sail away)
So sail away you sailors sail away across the sea
