

Our World It Fell so Quietly

The Irrepressibles

Dim light in the rain, I'm here again, so down I'll fall heart and all I know it so well,
this powerless hell,
no time to remember,
our world it fell so quietly.

I wade through the ashes and eyes, the sun touches yours eyes for a tear that cries for our words and lies.
Your touch your smell, your lips on mine, this dream passes by, I'll live and die by this insanity.
Our world it fell so quietly.

I take of my shirt,
bathe my skin,
wash away the sin,
so another day can begin now.
I lay on my side,
no dreams in the dark,
no war or lust for my ego a spark!
I take a deep a sigh, oh, how time changes everything.
Our world it fell so quietly... It feel so quietly... It feel s o quietly...

I still remember the first time we touched we tried so hard to hold each other still, we shivered and shivered all the lust that we felt for one anot her's bodies real,
I whispered I'm here for you now.
The tears glazed our eyes, the fear could this be us, is this who we are and can we understand that it's truth, we've had so many things to prove in our youth.
Now you're more beautiful and complete than I can be and all the universe was always willing me to see, but I was willing it was real and that he was never meant for you.
Now that there's someone that you lust for in so many ways I fe el, now that there's someone that you trust in I can't be the one w ho heals you, but I'm still loving you wanting to take care of you, it's eati ng away... our world it feel...