

I knew I knew a man, a man with five daughters, he could never hear himself at all They lived out under the airport, the hood he wore was not worn to keep him warm
I had a particular role to fill, he told me, "Go make a new ene my."
If I did I'd get a clear outlook
If I did I'd get a clear outlook
I think I know enough, I'm sure I know enough
Not to put people in a sack who live their whole lives in a hol e
If I could, I'd go out to the airport and make love to all five of his daughters Fertilize them young in their purity, teach them to make their father their enemy I'd make love to all five of his daughters, If I did, he'd get a clear outlook
I think I know enough, I'm sure I know enough
Not to put people in a sack who live their whole lives in a hol
If I could I'd go out to the airport, if I could I'd go out to the airport
And make love to all five of his daughters, I'd make love to al l five of his daughters Fertilize them young in their purity, fertilize them young in t heir purity Teach them to make their father their enemy, teach them to make their father their enemy
