

Walk Into a Storm

The Lone Bellow

I'd walk into a storm with you
Let the wind dance with our home with you
Let the lightning break our bones with you
Oh I'd walk into a storm

I'd walk into a flame with you
Watch the fire burn our bed with you
Breathe the smoke in until we're dead with you
Oh I'd walk into a flame

I recall those days we felt like
Giving up on each other
Days I feel you're mine
We're nothing but trouble
And nights that I can't mention

I'd watch the floodplains rise with you
Watch the mud turn into lies with you
Let the water and the ground bury us deep deep down

I'd walk into the cold with you
Watch the frostbite take a hold of you
Watch the ice break underneath our shoes
Oh I'd walk into the cold

I recall those days we felt like

Giving up on each other
Days I feel you're mine
We're nothing but trouble
And nights that I can't mention

Where we're going I don't know
Are we landing on our feet
For better or worse there's no escape
Always you and always me

Where we're going I don't know
Are we landing on our feet
For better or worse there's no escape
Always you and always me

I recall those days we felt like
Giving up on each other
Days I feel you're mine
We're nothing but trouble

Where we're going I don't know
Are we landing on our feet
For better or worse there's no escape
Always you and always me

Where we're going I don't know
Are we landing on our feet
For better or worse there's no escape
Always you and always me