

Punchline

The Motels

I know you hate me now
I see your face and know the reason why
I look at you and I am terrified
It's like we never were
So will we ever be again?

Shame dragged me here today
To hear the truth that I could never say
To take this blame I always gave away
I wait to see what comes
I wait to be undone

Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is

So far we've come and gone
Both of us trying to find our way home
With just lost dreams that we have come to own
And here we stand again
Is it the beginning or the end?

Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is

Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline
Everybody wants to know what the punchline is