Those Days Are Dead

The Reason

You went to town on the one way train that you wanted You got a job just to get some gain and you bought in Oh I wish I would have known you then I never would have called you friend I should have known that a I should have known you were phoney

I know you don't remember when
When everything you found was made of gold
And how we soon forget
None of this was ever set in stone
Those days are dead
And they will never come around no more
No more no more

You wait around just to see if the tables are turning
But from the ground we can see your buildings are burning
Now you don't know what lay ahead
Oh isn't this the day you dread
Cause now we know that a
And now we know you're a phoney

I know you don't remember when
When everything you found was made of gold
And how we soon forget
None of this was ever set in stone
Those days are dead
And they will never come around no more
No more no more

I know you don't remember when
When everything you found was made of gold
And how we soon forget
None of this was set in stone
Back in those days are dead
And they will never come around no more

No more no more No more no more No more no more
