Too Late

The Rembrandts

I kept you out past five When we talk, we get so deep The sun comes up too early... and I know you need your sleep But I can't let you go, with just one kiss... from your tender lips And I don't wanna wait, to feel the touch... of your fingertips Is it too late...too late...too late to love you Is it too late...too late...too late to love you

It's only Sunday morning, and the paper boy's gone by I see you off to dreamland, and all that that implies But I can't let you go, with just one kiss... from your tender lips And I can't live without, the love I know... that I know you give Is it too late...too late...too late to love you Is it too late...too late...too late to love you

How'm I gonna get inside? It seems no matter how I try It's only ever down to you Down to you! Ahhhhhh....ahhhhhh Now I can't let you go, with just one kiss... from your tender lips And I can't live without, the love I know.... that I know you give...to me

Is it too late?!...too late....too late to love you Is it too late...
