

too many kites and our strings got crossed you touched my hand and my heart got lost if you've been watching the things I do you might have noticed that I loved you but as it happened you never knew I hid pictures of you in my room there by your bedside all winter long clutching my heart wishing she was gone if you'd have woken you might not see that all I wanted was you for me so I just quietly left you be sending kisses to you in your sleep is it crazy to think that maybe you wanted me to stay and just forgot to say if you've been listening to what I say you might not love me now anyway but in ten years I'll still feel the same 'cause I heard that these kind of things stay
