In Love For The First Time

The Style Council

Guilty of the old excuse Of losing myself to you But I'm only human I think in time things can only get more confused

If I make the same mistake Of thinking it's all quite plain Please excuse my ignorance But I've never felt this before

In love for the first time Our hearts beat almost in time And nothing else seems to matter

There's nothing else that's on my mind I have no sense of time Only necking, mating, I think you'll know When we're apart, the time goes so slow

In love for the first time Our hearts beat almost in time And nothing else seems to matter

And where to start I do not know These things take time And time to grow

Now nothing else is on my mind I have no sense of time Only necking, mating, I think you'll know When we're apart, the time goes so slow

In love for the first time Our hearts beat almost in time And nothing else seems to matter

In love for the first time Our hearts beat almost in time And nothing else seems to matter