The Breaking

Theatre of Tragedy

I see their face in the mirror suit, a hazy image in a sea of n oise Formations fixed and dimming, shapes slowly shifting Into a metal model display Insight is failing, she's lost control As a new dawn fades, she breaks apart Minutes like decades, this day seems without an end Even trees in winter never looked so sad A sparkling in the window pane, a hidden glimmer of the timid p ain Reflections blurred by fumes Non-stop passers-by come and go from yesterday They're all awake with unsounded words Reposed in faux of life's splendour Some bright translation errors reset the time and scene I'm versed enough to know they always sleep