

They Don't Make Folks Like They Used To

Those Poor Bastards

I like old time country songs more than women more than god but I do not believe that makes me evil every time I go to town I pay the whores I make the rounds
But I do not believe that makes me evil

For the world has become a disease you can do what you want if you please yeah, the world has become a disease

Now I'll admit I take cocaine I drink old pro almost every day
but I do not believe that makes me evil I do not work I do not save desperate women pay my way
but I do not believe that makes me evil

'O the world has become a disease
you can do what you want if you please
yeah the world has become a disease and I don't believe they make folks like they used to everyone's so easy to replace

I do not sleep I do not dream everyone's a ghost to me
but I do not believe that makes me evil bolt your doors and hide your wife I'm coming to your town tonight
but I do not believe that makes me evil

For the world has become a disease you do what you want if you please yeah the world has become a disease
and I don't believe they make folks like they used to everyone's so easy to replace (god damn'em!) I don't believe they make folks like they used to Everyone's so easy to replace