

I placed my heart into your hands
So you would understand that what we've got is not over
And every time that we're apart
I know that what we had is worth the fight to make you...

Save me from the pain I'm chasing, maybe we can start replacing
All these tears with a chance to start things through
I swear I'm better without you

She said she'd need some time to think
And hope that I'd understand that what we have is missing
With every ounce of strength I have
I'm counting down every hour, waiting to hear your voice say...

Save me from the pain I'm chasing, maybe we can start replacing
All these tears with a chance to start things through
I swear I'm better without you

How many times do I need to scream
"I don't want you in my life"

You closed your eyes, you ripped out my heart
You cut yourself off from everyone that you loved
You closed your eyes (do you know there's still time?)

Save me from the pain I'm chasing, maybe we can start replacing
All these tears with a chance to start things through
I swear I'm better without you