

One Step Away

Throw The Fight

We all make mistakes.
We all have regrets.

Her heart was shining in the night
like diamonds strewn across the sky,
I could not help to catch her light as she walked by.
Twelve steps and seven little lies,
two days of waiting for her voice;
That's all it took to put a hole inside my life.

One step away
from leaving me in silence,
One step away
from walking out the door.
I see you in my dreams,
I pray that I can change.
Our lives are breaking
from this world we create.

We wore our hearts like our last breath, inhaled the air just as we met.
So close to being open,
fragile and so scared.
You taught me how to live again, cleaned up the wreckage and began To walk the row of broken hearts that never ends.

One step away
from leaving me in silence,
One step away
from walking out the door.
I see you in my dreams,
I pray that I can change,
Our lives are breaking
from this world we create.

We all make mistakes.
We all have regrets.

I told you I can be strong,
Without you I can't go on.
And it's killing me
And I just cannot breath
Now that I know I was wrong.

Without you my emotions are dead,
Without you I just can't pretend.
And it's killing me,
I lived in make-believe
Now that I know I was wrong.

Stop my bleeding,
Vultures feeding me
Into the fires I could never see.

One step away
from leaving me in silence,
One step away
from walking out the door.
I see you in my dreams,
I pray that I can change,
Our lives are breaking
from this world we create.