

Burn

Throwdown

You're living for one thing
Did you come this far to let life live you and betray your heart?
Disconnected, by the doubt in your head
You've been scarred by failure but never again
In this life you only get one chance at one thing
Trust in who you are and who you're becoming Cus when you thought life had come undone
You crush all those who spit in your face
Cus your time has come...
Your time has come, your time has come (time has come to)
Time has come for you to burn
Time has come for you
The time for all of us to
The time has come for you
To burn everyone and everything that said you were nothing
They said you were nothing til they made you who you are Destroy those lies cus you've earned these scars
Disrespected, time after time friend
Lied to and stepped on but never again
Only you and you alone choose your path in life
You better fight cus there's nowhere to hide
No escape and nowhere to run
No turning back now cus your time has
Your time has come
Your time has come (time has come to)
Time has come for you to burn
Time has come for you
The time for all of us to
The time has come for you to burn everyone and Everything that said you were nothing down
Burn them to the ground
Burn
