

In Another Life

Thunder

Eyes that speak across a crowded room
Saying so much, vibrations all in tune

I don't believe that I caught your name
'Cause I may not see your face again

But in another life, in another world
I know we'd have found a way
At another time, in another place
You'd be more than a memory I can't erase

Moments hang just waiting to be seized
Hesitate and they're blown away on the breeze

This space inside must be regret, I bet
'Cause I keep thinking about all I should've said

But in another life, in another world
I know we'd have found a way
I was just a slave to the circumstance
Another day I'd have stood a chance

Wish I'd have listened to my stupid heart
And not given in to my head
Wish I'd have trusted my instinct for once
And taken the right road instead

But in another life, in another world
I know we'd have found a way
At another time, in another place
You'd be more than a memory I can't erase

Lord, in another life, yeah

At another time, in another place
You'd be more than a memory I can't erase
