

Breathe Deep

Tiny Moving Parts

Breathe deep, breathe deep
A couple of words that I tend to repeat
I tend to repeat
Nervous what's coming so I, I try to run away
But off in the distance I can hear you say
Like marrow in your bones you need me
You need me

I don't understand the pain inside my chest
It's all in my head, yeah, it's all in my head
You said, you said, you said
If I expire would you be a liar
By feeling sorrow

Nothing lasts forever both you and me know this
And no one lasts forever both you and me
(Just let me go) Just let me go
(Bury) myself in the snow
(Maybe it's best) maybe it's best
(To stay cold) and

Be alone
Be alone
Be alone
Be alone

Let the warm breeze become a song
That comfort sings in the front lawn
If I sink deep into promising arms
Will you think of me (Will you think of me?)
When I am gone?

I don't understand the pain inside my chest
I don't understand the pain inside my chest
I don't understand the pain inside my chest
I don't understand the pain inside my chest

Sometimes I wonder if I'll last through the summer
Or if I will melt just like everyone else
(Stand tall) Each day I stand tall with twigs in my skin
Begging they will never snap

I don't understand the pain inside my chest
Never remember, always forget
