Harlem Butterfly

Tony Bennett

Harlem butterfly The moon got in your eye The night you were born

Harlem butterfly You listened to the cry Of some lonely horn

That combination Left you a mark That you'll never, never lose

While you chase some will o' the wisp In the dark Your heart keeps singing the blues

Oh, Harlem butterfly The writing's in the sky You'll come to no good

But I'm not blaming you I'm certain I would do The same if I could

But even though a candle Burned at the ends Can never last out the night

Harlem butterfly It really makes a lovely light

Harlem butterfly Goodnight
