

Silence the Sirens

Tora Tora

As I lay awake
There's a distant serenade
Keeps calling out my name
We've all been seduced
The lies become the truth
They say there'll be no escape
Living in a world where chaos reigns
Pushing greed, preaching hate
We can't escape the beautiful refrain

Silence the sirens
Silence the sirens
I need a moment of peace
I need a second to breathe
I need someone to save me

There's endless confusion
In the world today
The keeps you sleeping while you're awake
Feel I'm being blindly led to an early grave
Resist the voice of society
In their constant state of emergency
Pushing false campaigns and lost crusades
And seeds they will later reap
All we got to do right now
Is raise our voices loud
As we call out for a change

Silence the sirens
Silence the sirens
I need a moment of peace
I need a second to breathe
I need someone to save me
Silence the sirens
And the songs they sing
I need a moment to breathe
I need a second of peace
I need someone to save me

As I lie awake there's a distant serenade
That keeps calling out my name
We've all have been seduced
Where the lies become the truth
They said there'd be no escape
All we got to do right now
Is raise our voices loud
As we call out for a change

Silence the sirens
Silence the sirens
I need someone to save me
Silence the sirens

I need someone to save me

Silence the sirens

Silence the sirens

I need a moment of peace

I need a second to breathe

I need someone to save me
