

Naked

Tracy Bonham

My stubborn skin
Is wearing thin
I beared my soul
You waltzed right in
I gave you everything
And you just made me feel so very

Naked
And I don't remember
How I let myself
Become so unraveled

I spilled my guts
On your best shoes
You keep it in
I let it loose
It's only love that makes me
Feel like getting so completely

Naked
And I don't remember
How I let myself
Become so unraveled
I'm naked
Pretty as a heartache
Waiting for my second skin to settle in

Your hardened heart
Can't hide you now
It loves as much
As you allow
And in the end
The eyeball on me
Will just take you down
And you'll be

Naked
Nothing, but a heartache
And you know
There's nothing that can hide you now
You're naked
Pretty as a heartache
Going out exactly the way you came in
