

Valley

Trampled by Turtles

Down by the wildwood water you jumped right in Swallowed the whole damn package see you later friend It's alright to remember what you should of said With all them angels dieing in your cloudy head

There's peace in the Valley, Just give it some time
and you do all you can but you're just a man so you walk away.

There's no use in fighting you just lose your breath she covered her weary eyes gently wished for death

There's peace in the Valley,
just give it some time
with your two good hands Then you walk away

It's all dust and memories
I realized today
But its all we'll carry as time slips away

and I do all I can to try and understand before its over and done.
