I am at ruin Always lead nowhere When I cross the next day's threshold There's nothing There's only a fear of day and night An indifferent time everything so strange The centre of dullness evasts end Mazes of existence covered by moss Cold walls side by side I feel dead icy coolness Cobwebs hanging in darkness If there's no way out I fly into a whirl of unknown madness Swollen with a fright in slow dying We run away to a silence that is a shout To a light that is darkness Shadows broken on an edge of light Forgotten shapes deprived colours If there is no way out The shadow falls on a horizon of hope And there is nothing else Through the loneliness to sorrow Through the sorrow to despair
