

She's My Destination

Trent Dabbs

I woke up in a strange room
I didn't recognize the place
Forty-seven dollars and half a tank
With a lost look on my face
I drove through the seven wonders
And I started in the L.A. ring
I hand down my cup
I said 'warm me down
Because I've got to be on my way'
She's got moonlight in her eyes
And I'm guided by the constellations
Stealing all these miles
Like a thief in the night
She's my destination
I'm dreaming that I dealt a highway
'Til the hair got long again
There was a handful of times
I said to myself 'I really could use a friend'
I saw a deer in the headlights
Not too far from the road
I met a business man that wanted to be free
So I helped him cut the rope
She's got moonlight in her eyes
And I'm guided by the constellations
Stealing all these miles
Like a thief in the night
She's my destination
My conscience was conflicted
When I drove to my hometown
I had a couple of conversations with myself
Just wondering where she is now
I asked about her whereabouts
Nobody had a clue
I guess it just doesn't matter where you start
It matters where you follow through
She's got moonlight in her eyes
And I'm guided by the constellations
Stealing all these miles
Like a thief in the night
She's my destination
