

Hourglass

Trixie Whitley

There was something wrong with the other night and it made me see in a different light
But it's all on me cause I'm not who I used to be

Will history repeat again
It comes around every now and then Before you go
I got to let you know

You told your story
and I played along Now you're hiding
from the damage that's been done
It's been done

You couldn't face me
so u ran away
I would never want to see the world that way
Your way

There were certain things that were hard to see Well it's no longer a mystery
And I must confess
I couldn't care less

You told your story
and I played along
Now you're hiding
from the damage that's been done
It's been done

You couldn't face me
so you ran away
I would never want to see the world that way
Your way