I Can't Save You Now

Tyrone Wells

Cracks in the concrete
Breaking the ground beneath your feet
Always threatening

The stars are exploding
All that you know is crumbling
You cry yourself to sleep

But I can't save you now
I can't save you now
I can't save you now
I don't know how

You can't see your fault lines
You say "this earthquake isn't mine"
But it's yours every time

Your fragile and broken
World will one day begin again
Just know it's not the end

But I can't save you now
I can't save you now
I can't save you now
I don't know how