

In the End

Tysondog

We watched our dreams die & crumble into dust
We felt the darkness closing in
Before the light returned the madness took it's toll
A sign for silence to begin

We watched the tears fall & found what was once ours
And as I left, you followed on
And as the feeling grew & rose beyond our dreams
We found the endless night was gone

When black is white & jealous eyes see only what they want
The end's in sight, and times the only healer in the end
In the end

Fight the fight while you look to the air
Looking all around but you don't know where Look in the mirror, tell me what do you see
Nothing all around but you want to see me
