Change

I am the road I walk alone exposed and turned to stone a heart without a home

Walk for miles to walk away a new life every day to welcome come what may

Turn around and make the change turn it round and love will happen you took a lifetime to find the change

I am the wall I built along the line that I have drawn so cold and dark and strong resistant to all love and hate so tragic and so great no heart to penetrate

Turn around and make the change turn it round and love will happen you took a lifetime to find the change

Leave you standing on my shore to watch this ocean roar a sea you can't cross over a racing tide to wash away the gift of better days with words that you might say

Turn around and make the change turn around and make the change turn it round and love will happen you took a lifetime to find the warmth, the love the change
