In Completion

Underoath

So follow me to the empty ocean We can watch the city descend behind the skylight On our backs we float away And forget about the way it used to be

Tonight I fail But I never wanted to let you drown without me Tonight we are the only ones to watch it fall apart

We slide into our place where I can watch you swim Don't forget my hands still wrapped around your neck

We fall deeper into the ground This nights never looked so hollow I wanted to share this with you, with you I'll wait till it opens up again Sit here till the water reaches our necks Finally get to watch them wash away my name

Tonight I fail But I never wanted to let you drown without me, without me

Open your lungs Follow me down Open your lungs Follow me down I set this off Keep swimming, keep swimming Oh God I am emptier than you