

Another Night Out

UNKLE

Lift the wheels up from the roadway close your sparrow's glassy eyes and walk upon the water once more for me are those dead diamonds baby or are they stars gone to sleep?

So low that you might miss me slowly fades the light
so low that you might miss me
slowly fades the light

Wait for the spring
and to this thing I do surrender into the darkest sin I climb with the vine on a graveyard train pulling away drowning to dive down full fathom five to wear the hollow crown
to haunt the hollow trees

And what from heaven's tongue is heard? through the veins
love sustained
another night out

So low that you might miss me
slowly fades the light
another night out
another night out

Wait for the spring
and to this thing I give myself
on a graveyard train pulling away
down into heaven
down into heaven
down into heaven
to wear the hollow crown
to haunt the hollow trees
to wear the hollow crown
to haunt the hollow trees