

Message To Home

Vision Divine

If I could take a piece of time and save it under glass
To make it stay, to make it last forever
If I could change my state of mind
And freeze my thoughts like ice
And be like tonight, whenever I feel the need for peace

I would choose this night to get lost in my dreams
To release my mind forever free

Message to home, letter from far away
From a distant sky
Just a few lines into the dark fall
Look at the sky,
One of the million lights you see at night
Is our home, it's where we live right now

If I could stop the flowing of life
And live like in a picture, frozen in time I'd surely choose it to be today

I would choose this night to get lost in my dreams
To release my mind forever free

Message to home, letter from far away
From a distant sky
Just a few lines into the dark fall
Look at the sky,
One of the million lights you see at night
Is our home, it's where we live right now

[What a heaven! Everything's so perfect here. A new planet to be explored, no pollution, no sort of troubles in sight. It's all ours and here we can build our lives once again, the way we want it, like a second chance for our sons and the next generations that will come. I feel as if we've entered right into the house of the angels...]
