Misunderstood

Voodoo Glow Skulls

there's a riot in the street and no one seems to care the kids are all at home they're glued to their TV's revolution now now I don't got time I've got to meet my friends they're at the bar waiting for me try run me out of my neighborhood if I don't comply I'm just no good I'll just spend my whole life misunderstood there's a war outside my head and it wants to get inside life could be so easy I always try to let things slide

I can't decide if I should join the team or watch the world run dry try to keep my head up problems, you have yours and I got mine
