Give me the strength to stand apart from all my fears And stay true to all that I hold deep inside my heart Hide me undernearth your wings You are the shelter we all need With every breath I take You are there stand aside free me You have bled for me now I bleed for You With all my emptiness that I held I will never be the same Put me to rest and renew my soul We clench our fists and bare our arms Only to cry out in Your presence oh God to all who try to end my life I stand firm and now I've been set free saved by Him Whom I call king Through Him I will always remain the same I will always remain the same You can't break me
