Better Luck Next Time

We Are the In Crowd

I guess it was wishful to think I was different from the rest Now I'm red in the face I don't think I'm impressed

Miss strong and outspoken So easily broken Now I kick myself I should've know better Get it together You can't blame me

Are you listening?

Wrap your lines around another
While you sweet talk to yourself I'd rather leave
You stitched a heart on your sleeve
But I see right through the seams
I knew the coward in you would play the lead

The nights you spent with me
And didn't want to leave
You stayed with me until I fell asleep

All the things I wish I said Playing back inside my head It just might be a long shot You're marching with your eyes shut

Wrap your lines around another
While you sweet talk to yourself I'd rather leave
You stitched a heart on your sleeve
But I see right through the seams
I knew the coward in you would play the lead

All the things I wish I said Playing back inside my head

It just might be a long shot You're marching with your eyes shut It just might be a long shot You're marching with your eyes shut

Wrap your lines around another
While you sweet talk to yourself I'd rather leave
You've stitched a heart on your sleeve
But I see right through the seams
I knew the coward in you would play the lead