

Trouble Is Temporary, Time Is Tonic

We Are the Ocean

I would like to say some words and get them off my chest
You see, I've been working so damn hard, I need a little rest
So I scream and shout, scream and shout
Scream a little more
You have no idea how close I am to walking out that door

I've been told just to let it all go
And I've been told just to give it up, give it up
I've been told just to let it all go
But I can't, no, I won't

I've been here before more than you know
To my surprise it gets easier the further you go
Let down, let down, I've been let down again
I've been let down more times than I care to count
I can't believe what I've become, you can see it in my eyes
Only the ones who have been hard done will know how it feels in side

I've been told just to let it all go
And I've been told just to give it up, give it up
I've been told just to let it all go
But I can't, no, I won't

Well I've been told just to let it all go
And I've been told just to give it up, give it up
I've been told just to let it all go
But I can't, no, I won't

I've been told just to let it all go
And I've been told just to give it up, give it up
I've been told just to let it all go
But I can't, no, I won't

I've been told just to let it all go
And I've been told just to give it up, give it up
I've been told just to let it all go
But I can't, no, I won't