

Visitor

Wet

You're the visitor never anywhere
Spend your days from place to place
Anything you know always gets away
You've got women but no love
Look down at her from above
And think maybe, maybe you've had enough

If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one
If you need someone to hold
We'll find a way to be alone
If you're done running around
Let's find a place to make our own
If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one

I'm a visitor never anywhere
Spend my days from stage to stage
And the night with a stranger's face
I'm a visitor with no time to spare
I've counted them from above
And think maybe, maybe I've had enough

If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one
If you need someone to hold
We'll find a way to be alone
If you're done running around
We'll find a place to make our own
If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one

It's all for nothing
When you come down and there's no one around
And it's still surprising
When you realized it was you you let down
And I know you're a giant
But I'll be there when you don't always work out
And I, I want something
I can feel when I'm not always around

If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one
If you need someone to hold
Let's find a way to be alone
If you're done running around
Let's find a place to make our own
If you're looking for a home
Well, maybe I could be one

If you need someone to hold
Let's find a way to be alone
If you're looking for a home
Well, baby, I could be one
If you need someone to hold
Let's find a place to make our own
If you're looking for a home

Well, baby, I could be one
