Whiskey Myers

Your daddy was a ramblin' man
One that's been down a time or two
I was a late night gambling man
Back before I met your mama and you
So let me drop a little wisdom on ya Before I get old gray so that you don't do the things that I've done
No you don't have to make the same mistakes
Cause I won't always be around
No I won't always be around
So here's a few things I've learned from my crooked road
Like life ain't worth living if you spend it alone
It takes a whole lot of love and a happy home to get it right
And a little something from the other side
You know I tasted that desert wind I've danced through a hurricane
I climbed the highest mountains
Had the baddest women and champagne but it didn't bring me happ iness
I was only empty til I found love so boy don't ever lose yourse lf
And don't forget that there's someone up above Cause I won't always be around for when this ole world gets you down

So here's a few things I've learned from my crooked road
Like life ain't worth living if you spend it alone
It takes a whole lot more than flesh and bone to get it right
So stick to your guns and let your roots run deep Don't be scared of taking a leap
It takes some falling down and getting back on your feet before you learn to fly
And a little something from the other side
A little something from the other side
So here's a few things I've learned from my crooked road
Ain't nothing wrong with never growing old It's about the times you share not the things you own or the bo ttom line
And though one day I won't be around
Just know I was happy with the life I found
But It took a whole lot of falling and stumbling down before I got it right
It took a little something from the other side
A little something from the other side
