It's Already Done

Whitecross

The day that you decide to follow And choose to end the war within If your present situation is a constant aggravation You feel so trapped in your sin.

Just remember that a battle makes us stronger Even though we feel we can't fight any longer If we just believe his words we will see his power Grace will find us in that hour

It's already done It's already won It's already done It's already won

If you decide tonight to follow Count the cost and take a ride On a train that's on a run Forever circling the Son

Always by his side You can lose all of your yesterdays in heaven All the powers in your past are laid to rest If you ever wanted out So bad it made you shout Believe when you face the test

It's already done It's already won It's already done It's already won It's already done It's already won It's already done It's already won
