The 12th of September

Xavier Rudd

It's come to our attention Life now is bound to change While we the peaceful majority We sit back and anticipate

These are our days now
These are not the same now
These are not the same
These human beings are dangerous
Their greed is contagious
Now the world it waits

These people they attacked our freedom Their weapons technology and hate Lives were stolen without warning Brothers and sisters now erased

These are our days now
These are not the same now
These are not the same
These human beings are dangerous
Their greed is contagious
Now the world it waits