A Last Time for Everything

A last time for everything My head is burning inside Once again they've found me Their swirling voices fill my ears Leave this all behind you Screaming their way into my mind Leaving everything you know behind I'm in fast-forward and you are in rewind The song plays when life and death align The shaking seems so still When you're shaking as well In time we all crossoveralive inside our death Fear escapes alongside of my breath A last time for everything Time stops for one But not for another Sever the great strings of the earth
